

DEFINITIONS TO BE TESTED

✓ Accounting data: Records concerning the actual disposition of funds and employment of personnel.

✓ Activity: Organizationally, equates to ENTITY. Functionally, equates to MISSION.
Capability, actual: The ability or capacity to accomplish a specified purpose, empirically demonstrated.

Capability, designed: The specified ability or capacity to accomplish the purpose for which designed or organized.

Capability, potential: The theoretical ability or capacity to accomplish a specified purpose under optimum conditions.

Capital investment: The dollar value of facilities. ("Value to be defined.")

Codeword: A word assigned a classification and a classified meaning to safeguard intentions and information concerning a classified plan, operation, program or project, or a cryptonym used to identify sensitive intelligence data.

✓ Collection probability index: A numerical expression of the expected actual performance of collection assets, in relation to each other, in accomplishment of a specified task.

Conspicuous: Easy to identify as intelligence-related and attracting or expected to attract attention when exposed.

Cross-function: Of or pertaining to two or more functions.

Cross-program: Of or pertaining to two or more intelligence programs.

Effectiveness measures: Expressions of the outcome of the evaluation of intelligence assets to accomplish specified results.

✓ Entity: The smallest coherent grouping of resources that is identified for resource management purposes.

✓ Facilities: Real estate and improvements thereto, including buildings and installed property.

Factual data: Data which can be verified by objective tests; opposed to data based on interpretation and judgement.

Function: The special performance required in the course of work necessary to accomplish assigned tasks.

Intelligence asset: A means available for use in an intelligence operational or support role, such as a unit, sensor or sensor platform combination.

Intelligence collection requirement: A validated statement of need for information on a specific subject.

Intelligence operation: The action or process of acting to accomplish a specific task related to an intelligence mission.

Intelligence production requirement: A validated statement of need for intelligence on a specific subject.

Intelligence product: The result of intelligence work, presented to a consumer.

Intelligence program: A grouping of related intelligence assets, under a single manager, directed toward a common purpose.

Intelligence projects: A planned undertaking of something to be accomplished toward the satisfaction of a specific task, having a finite beginning and a finite ending.

✓ Intelligence unit: A grouping of personnel and equipment in a structure approved by competent authority for a specific purpose. at a specific geographic location

✓ Mission: The specific purpose for which an organization or unit is organized, an activity is established, a project is undertaken, or a system is developed.

National intelligence asset: Intelligence assets funded by CIA, State, or under Defense Program 3.

National intelligence program: An intelligence program for which the DCI provides planning or program guidance.

Nickname: A combination of two unclassified words, assigned an unclassified meaning, and assigned to events, projects, maneuvers, tests, exercises, or other activities, involving elements of information of any classification, for administrative, morale or public information purposes, and not used to achieve a security objective.

Organization: A systematized grouping of ~~entities~~ ^{units} for a common purpose in a structure approved by competent authority.

Operational: Available for employment and capable of performing the mission or functions for which designed or organized.

Program manager: An individual exercising authority over the planning, direction and control of tasks and associated functions essential for the operation and support of designated assets and projects.

Principal non-intelligence function: A function unrelated to intelligence work for which a unit must expend a significant portion of its resources. (Further definition of "significant portion" is required.)

Relationship, command: The relationship established by competent authority for the distribution and control of resources for the operation of units, activities and projects.

Relationship, functional: The technical relationship established for the accomplishment of assigned responsibilities and tasks.

Relationship, operational: The relationship established for the accomplishment of a particular operation or project or series of continuing operations.

Resources: Funds and personnel, alone or in combination.

Serendipitous collection take: Intelligence information fortuitously acquired.

Significant references: References, the nature of which are significant at the DCI level. (To be determined.)

Target: The geographic area or the subject, or combination thereof, which is the focus of an intelligence undertaking.

Tactical intelligence unit or activity: An intelligence unit or activity belonging to a military Service and funded other than under Defense Program 3, and excluding combat units and staff components of headquarters below the numbered army, fleet or air force level.